INTRODUCTION (TANITIM)

This event is being organized by the Center for Gifted and Talented at Inonu University and the United States Department of State. The event will be a week-long camp for about 50 gifted and talented students, 6 teachers and numerous volunteers both Turkish and American. It will include a professional development component for the teachers and interactive/experiential English learning opportunities for the students, as well as opportunities to participate in various games, arts and crafts, drama, music and American baseball activities. The objective of the camp is to improve student language skills, provide teachers with interactive approaches to language learning using sports and drama, expose students to aspects of US society and culture, help students learn about Turkish history with a visit to Aslantepe, provide students with an opportunity to learn about sharing while preparing a performance of a musical play and, most importantly, have FUN.

Hikmet Geckil, Director of the Center for Gifted and Talented and Carol Weidner, English Language Fellow, will co-direct the program with the help of Cedric Thompson, guest music and drama teacher and teacher trainer from Baskent University School in Adana. In addition, five American English teachers and two Turkish university teachers will work with the children in small groups. University English students and other area English teachers will also be helping direct the daily activities, as well as the final musical drama which will be presented to the parents at a closing banquet ceremony.

This will be an educational and fun program for both the students and teachers and hopefully be the first of many future such events.
